SPORTS IN PERSPECTIVE

"Sports in perspective" is an idea that surrounds almost every action or decision involving athletics, and should be the motto of the Lewis and Clark College Athletic Department.

In a time when many college athletes are graduating with less than average basic skills, its reassuring to know that at Lewis and Clark, academics still come before athletics, and that this insistence hasn't hampered the development of some truly fine athletes, and teams.

This development is encouraged by the belief that athletic participation is a part of the educational process, not necessarily apart from it. Because of this reassurance, athletes who value participation, not specialization, have found an opportunity to grow physically and mentally, simultaneously.

One out of every three students at Lewis and Clark participates in some type of athletic activity, either inter-collegiate, club or intermural. Seventeen varsity teams are fielded each year — nine for men, eight for women. Club sports cover six areas, intermurals nine.

These varsity teams consistently place in the top positions in their respective leagues: 17 district football playoffs; 14 track league titles; 10 conference titles in baseball; six district championships in soccer; 12 consecutive conference championships in women's tennis; two National Volleyball Tournament appearances; and many other honored athletes and teams.

Excellence at Lewis and Clark College is bred in the classroom as well as on the court. Student athletes here are fortunate to be able to participate in an environment that demands, and receives, excellence in both.

After 19 Years

WILSON FOOTBALL ERA TO END THIS SEASON

After almost two decades as the leader of Lewis and Clark College's football program, Fred Wilson, 57, has announced his retirement, effective at the end of the 1983 season.

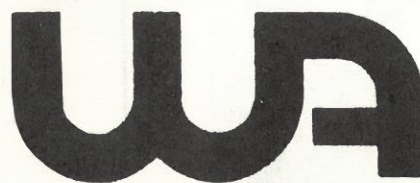

In a career that spanned 19 seasons, Wilson established a 75-85-2 record in the Northwest Conference, considered by many to be one of the top small college leagues in the nation. Wilson's teams have won three conference championships, and finished second twice.

Wilson himself has earned NAIA District II Coach of the Year honors, and his teams have a 49-59-1 record in league play.

Wilson is currently in his 26th year of service to Lewis and Clark College, having served as head coach in football, baseball, and golf. Before coaching at Lewis and Clark, Wilson spent six years in the prep ranks at Albany and Ranier high schools.

A three sport letterman at Lewis and Clark, Wilson was captain of the undefeated football team of 1950.

Wilson will retain his duties as Director of Men's Athletics, a position he's held since 1972.

Coach: Mary Lou Hunter

Coach Mary Lou Hunter

Mary Lou Hunter is an associate professor of health and physical education at Lewis & Clark where she has been a member of the faculty since 1966. In her 16th year as volleyball coach, she is recognized as one of the area's finest tacticians and teachers of the sport. In 1975, she was nominated for the Slat's Gill Coach of the Year Award by the Oregon Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association.

She is a 1959 graduate of Lewis & Clark and received her master's degree in education from Oregon State University. A specialist in outdoor education, she taught in Salem and Russellville public schools before coming to Lewis & Clark.

Her teams have won eight Women's Conferences of Independent Colleges championships, including six straight from 1973 to 1978, and also won four straight regional championships (from 1973 to 1976). Twice the Pioneer women participated in the AIAW national championships under her guidance.

In the past seven years, her teams posted a 111-77 record. Last season the Pioneers were 7-14.

Hunter is being assisted by ex-LC player Cindy Krough.

SPORTS REPORTS

Enough experience in key positions and talented freshmen may well hold the key for the Pioneer's this season.

Hoping to improve upon last year's 2-7 mark, Coach Fred Wilson has the opportunity in Quarterbacks Steve Oakley and Brian Fellows, running backs Mike Meyers, Cliff Moore, Dave Grill and Steve Rebishke, and split receivers Rob Johnston and Bob Glanville.

Mike Thompson, Bruce Corson, Mike Lawler and Morgan Wilson anchor an otherwise young defense. Coach Wilson has announced this is his last season as head coach.

CROSS COUNTRY

Third year Head Coach David Fix seems pleased with the potential in this year's cross country programs. On both men's and women's team Fix thinks he's found some of the depth and experience to make them competitive in 1983.

Five lettermen return on the women's team, including sophomore Kathy Hanss, 3rd place finisher in the last WCIC season, 57th at NAIA Nationals.

Paul Mattson, the Pioneer's top runner and team captain, leads the list of six returning lettermen for this season's men's team. Although young this season, the Pioneer's hope to improve upon last season's 5th place finish at NAIA District.

VOLLEYBALL

"We have the strongest group we've had in a long time, with a lot of talent, spirit, and enthusiasm," Mary Hunter believes. Hunter, in her 17th season as the Pioneer Head Volleyball coach, returns eight lettermen to this year's squad, as well as Colleen Egbert, who was injured last season.

MEN'S SOCCER

Consistency is the goal of this year's Men's Soccer team, and if they find it early, Coach Tony Evans believes the team can improve upon last season's 7-6-3 record.

All-Conference defender Henry Thompson returns to this year's squad, along with All-District forward Stu MacPherson, in his third varsity season. Midfielder Lincoln Ware adds two years of experience, but the remainder of the team is still young.

Evans feels that if they can start the season like they finished last year, then they will be improved. "We have a lot of potential. A big question mark is whether or not consistency can be established early."

WOMENS SOCCER

Things seem to be going right for second year Women's Soccer Coach Randy Nordlof.

Only two seniors graduated from last season's second place finishing team. All League midfielder Ann Luotto is back this year, along with All League Honorable Mention Shelly Berg, goalie, and fullback Indi Finch. Twenty four "very skilled freshman" tried out for this year's team. With a good schedule and returning experience, soccer fans may see a league championship from the 1983 team.

Coach: Dr. David Fixx

Coach David Fixx

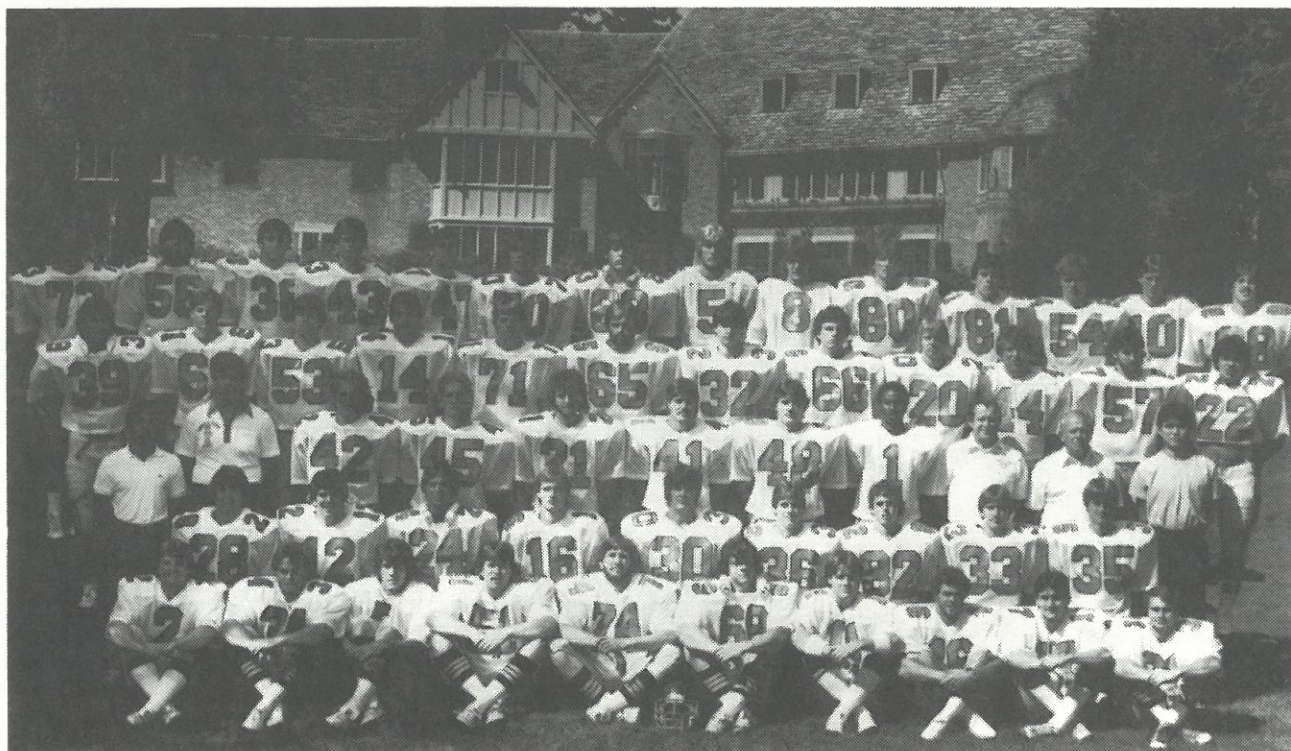

Dr. David Fixx is continuing a tradition of excellence in cross country and track and field competition at Lewis & Clark started 36 years ago by his father, Dr. Eldon Fixx.

David, in his third year as head coach of the two sports, is an assistant professor of health and physical education. Before joining the faculty at his alma mater, he headed the cross country and track and field programs at San Francisco State University for six years. Prior to San Francisco, he was an assistant track coach at the University of Oregon for three years under Bill Dellinger, head coach at Eastern Oregon State College for one year and as assistant at Eastern Illinois University for one year. A 1970 graduate of Lewis & Clark, he received his Ph.D. in physical education from the University of Oregon in 1979.

Fixx was a four-year letterman in both track and cross country at LC. He was a two-time Northwest Conference and NAIA District 2 cross country champion, a conference winner in the 2 mile, 3 mile and steeplechase and four times ran in the NAIA nationals. A member of the Pioneer Athletic Hall of Fame, he still holds the school 5,000 meter and steeplechase records.

LEWIS & CLARK COLLEGE FOOTBALL 1983

Pacific Lutheran Game Notes

Pacific Lutheran headed into last Saturday's Northwest Conference opener against NAIA Division 2's defending national champion Linfield as odds-on favorite to replace the Wildcats at the top of the Northwest Conference race this fall; the Lutes were 7th-ranked nationally and had only a 15-14 loss to powerful Central Washington to blemish an impressive pre-league showing. PLU had beaten strong Puget Sound, 13-10, and romped over good Simon Fraser, 34-14. But the 2-2 Wildcats, themselves 16th in the NAIA polls, upset the Lutes, 30-27, on their home Astroturf in Tacoma. Thus, Coach Frosty Westering brings his Lutheran charges to Portland smarting from the Linfield loss and eager to get back on track.

Lewis & Clark also will be out to reverse some inpleasantries. The Pioneers hope to make Homecoming 1983 on Palatine Hill a happy event by snipping a four-game losing string and at the same time making amends for a rude treatment by PLU last year in Tacoma. The Lutes, who have a six-game win streak going in the series between the two schools and hold a 12-8-1 advantage, rocked L-C, 48-0 in that 1982 game. It was the widest victory margin ever by a Lewis & Clark opponent. The Pioneers' last success against Pacific Lutheran was 20-6 back in 1976.

Senior quarterback Kevin Skogen and hard-running fullback Jeff Rohr, key rold players in last year's victory, are back to spark the PLU attack again. However, PLU, which returned 16 starters from last year, looks to its experienced and big defense as its greatest asset. The Lute defensive line, anchored by all-league Steve Gibbs, averages 230 pounds to the man and leads the nation in stopping the run, yielding less than 35 yards per game.

The injury-plagued Pioneers opened Northwest Conference play against Whitworth, and for three quarters gave the Spokane club everything it could handle and more. Lewis & Clark, playing without key regulars Mike Lawler, Steve Reeves and Greg Lindsay, jumped to a 10-0 first half lead and were up 16-15 at halftime. But the host Pirates, who lead the nation in passing and are third in total offense, exploded for three touchdowns in the game's final 13 minutes to go on to a 41-19 win. In addition to having to face the potent Whitworth aerial game without Lawler, an all-NWC and all-district cornerback and Reeves, a three-year starter at strong safety, Robby Robinson, a strong performer and starter at the other corner all year, went to the sidelines midway through the game as did freshman Don Easterbrook. "We really decimated," veteran Coach Fred Wilson said. Lawler and Reeves have both been lost for the season with injuries, and Lindsay, one of the top offensive linemen in the conference, is out for at least two weeks.

Bright spots for the Pioneers were the kicking of junior Hal Nachtrieb and the continued strong running of 220-pound fullback Cliff Moore. Nachtrieb kicked a pair of 41-yard field goals (career bests for him) and added a PAT to move him into the scoring lead for the Pioneers. He's 7 of 8 in FG attempts so far this season. Moore carried 14 times for 80 yards and is now average 66.4 yards a game and 5.4 per carry through five contests. Bob Glanville caught a pair of TD passes from Steve Oakley and the Pioneer defense came up with four interceptions in the game, including two by outside linebacker Dan Cox, who is now the Pio season leader in that department with three. The other thefts were Mike Galef (his second of the year) and Adam Brown.

Coach Randy Nordlof

Randy Nordlof enters his second year as coach of the women's soccer team after a brilliant first year that saw his team finish second in league play to PLU.

Before coaching at Lewis & Clark, Nordlof coached girls soccer at Sam Barlow High School. His team there was third ranked in the state and made it all the way to the semi-finals of the Oregon State Championships before losing to eventual titlist Aloha. In addition to coaching soccer at Sam Barlow, he also served as junior varsity boy's basketball coach under Head Coach Randy Hurt, a former Pioneer basketball player.

Nordlof, currently enrolled in the college's master's degree program in education, is a graduate of Portland State University. While attending PSU, he played soccer for four years with the Portland Thunderbirds, a first division team in the Portland City League. He's had a varied experience in the prep coaching ranks, including serving as an assistant in freshman and junior varsity basketball at David Douglas High School while he was attending college, and a junior high football coach in the Gresham school district.

Coach: Dr. Tony Evans

Coach Tony Evans

Dr. Anthony Evans, an associate professor of health and physical education at Lewis & Clark, is in his 12th season as men's soccer coach. His teams have been perennial powerhouses in small college soccer play in Oregon, posting an impressive 124-61-30 record in a decade of competition. The Pioneers in that span won six NAIA District 2 titles in eight years, made it to the West Coast playoffs six times and took three Northwest Conference crowns in four years.

Dr. Evans is a former English soccer and rugby player and is a native of Blaenavon, Wales. He studied at St. Lukes College in Exeter, England, and received his master's degree and Ph.D. in anatomy and physiology from the University of Oregon. For ten years, he also served as men's tennis coach at LC.

Evan's assistant this season is former LC varsity player Chris Neids.

FALL RALLY

Five Lewis & Clark student's spent hours between classes, jobs, and studies to practice cheers and help promote spirit at fall athletic contests. They are members of the 1983-84 Pioneer Rally Squad.

NORTHWEST CONFERENCE

Lewis and Clark is a charter member of the Pacific Northwest Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, better known simply as the Northwest Conference. The conference is one of the nation's oldest, being founded in 1926. The conference, highly competitive and balanced, currently includes seven members, all independently funded colleges and universities with similar intercollegiate athletic philosophies.

Members of the NWC include, in addition to Lewis and Clark, Linfield College, McMinnville, Ore.; Pacific University, Forest Grove, Ore.; Pacific Lutheran University, Tacoma, Wash.; Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash.; Whitworth College, Spokane, Wash., and Willamette University, Salem, Ore.

The NWC annually sponsors championships in 10 sports—basketball, baseball, cross country, football, golf, soccer, swimming and diving, tennis, track and field, and wrestling.

CLUB SPORTS

Club sports play a unique and popular role on the Lewis and Clark campus, and can be loosely defined as having informal scheduling requirements. They are mostly funded through the ASLC and other sources. These "other sources" might include such activities as the highly successful ski raffle held last spring. Included in the wide range of club sports are water polo, skiing, fencing, crew, sailing, and lacrosse.

Alex Beguinet will be in his fifth year as coach of the fencing club, and also doubles as a physical education instructor of that sport. His teams are consistently among the top finishers in Northwest Intercollegiate Fencing tournaments which take place winter term.

Andy Krakauer is in his second season with the ski team that uses the slopes of nearby Mt. Hood. Two of his skiers, Peter Thiss and John Copper, went to nationals last year and return this year for further action.

Crew and Sailing are headquartered a short distance down Palatine Hill on the Willamette River. The Sailing team has competed in National Collegiate Championships in Chicago and South Carolina. The women's crew team has competed in the National Collegiate Rowing Regatta in Boston.

Lacrosse is the "new kid on the block" in the LC sports program, and features a coed lineup with home matches played at Delta Park and Griswold Stadium. Opponents are other colleges and universities and teams from the Portland City League.

fully-accredited four-year colleges and universities throughout the United States and Canada.

On the men's front Lewis and Clark has been an active member of the NAIA since 1948, while the women are in their baptismal year, after leaving the now defunct AIAW where they competed on the Division III level.

The basic concept of NAIA is that intercollegiate athletic programs of member institutions should be an integral part of the total educational program and subject to the same aims, policies and objectives of all other departments and programs.

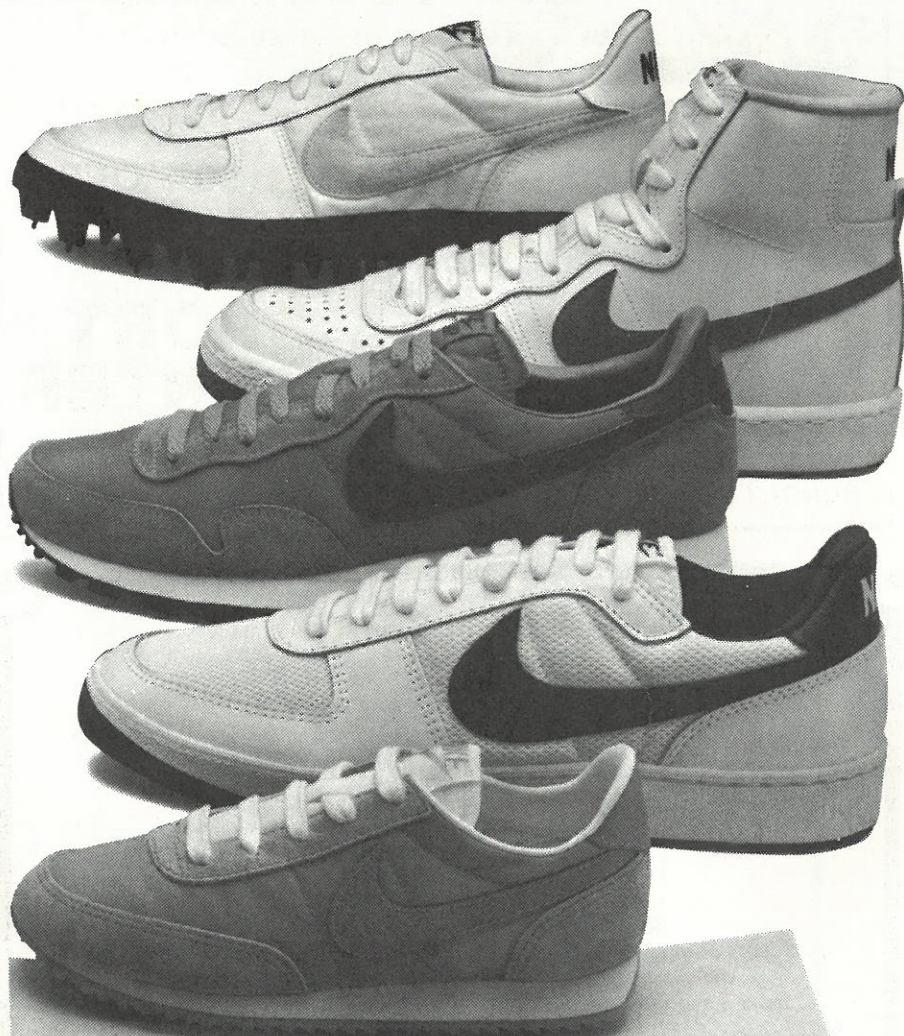

NAIA's philosophy is geared to those colleges and universities of usually a moderate to small enrollment that administer their varsity sports programs on what they consider a sound educational and financial base. There does exist within the rules of the NAIA a wide range of thought among the members as to the amount of financial aid (grants) that should be awarded the student athletes. Lewis and Clark, along with other members of the NWC, award financial aid on the basis of family need.

Established in 1940 as the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball, it evolved from a national small college basketball tournament started in 1937. The NAIA now conducts district, area, and national competition in 15 championship events for men. For women the total starts at nine, but is growing annually.

Football, which became part of the men's program in 1956, has had two divisions of competition since 1970. The NAIA basketball championships with 500 schools competing for the title in one division is held annually in Kansas City's Kemper Arena. The final 32 top teams compete in March in what is considered the nation's

1983 SPRING ROUND UP

Individual honors and recognition have come to Pioneer athletes in big junks in recent years. For instance, honors last spring:

Coach Jerry Gatto's Northwest Conference Championship baseball team produced two conferences all-stars in first-baseman Bryon Henderson, 1st Team All Conference, District and Area, and third-baseman Bob D'Aboy, 1st Team All-Conference and District, Brian Skeels All-Conference.

Second-baseman Mary K. Plass earned WCIC All-Conference honors in softball, along with teammate Julann Peters, third base, NAIA District II All-Star.

Paul Mattson placed 11th in the NAIA National Marathon Championships, the highest finisher from the west coast.

Marc Gianneschi placed 1st in the 110m hurdles at NAIA District.

Charlie Hart was 2nd in the 10,000m walk at the District championships.

Mike Pressley 1st in the conference meet in the shot put; Jimm Carr finished 2nd in the javelin.

Esme Jensen placed 12th in the National Heptathlon championships after finishing first at the District II Championships. She also placed 1st in the long jump and 2nd in the high jump at the SCIC championships.

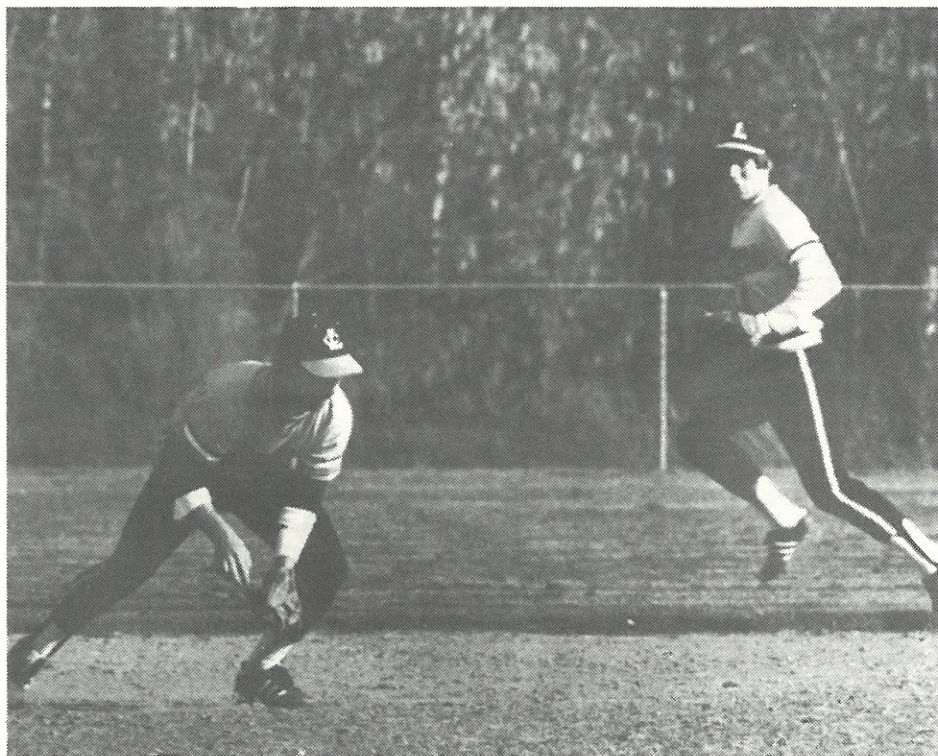

Barb Crocher finished 2nd in the SCIC shot put; Michelle McArthur finished 2nd in the District II 400m hurdles.

largest basketball show. This is especially true commencing last season with the women's final eight schools also competing for their national championship during the same week.

Lewis and Clark has been an active member of the NAIA since 1948. The Pioneers compete in NAIA's District 2. The men's district has 20 member institutions and stretches from Idaho (2 members) to Hawaii (4 members). The District has playoffs in 10 sports with team winners and top individual finishers advancing to national championship competition. The District competition for women is in an embryonic stage but will follow mainly along men's lines as to schools competing. ■

THE COLLEGE

Lewis and Clark is a kalidescope of intellectual stimulation, cultural expression and human development taking place on one of the nation's most beautiful college campuses.

Roots of the college are planted deep in Oregon's pioneer soil. It began in Albany, a mid-Willamette Valley farming and logging community, in 1867. The founding fathers, frontier Presbyterian churchmen, called it Albany Collegiate Institute. Seventy years later, Albany College was moved to Portland and in 1942 to its present site in the city's southwest hills. That year the name was changed to Lewis and Clark.

Today the college occupies 130 acres of forests and lawns on Palatine Hill and stands as the largest of Oregon's privately funded four-year degree granting colleges and universities. Total enrollment, including Lewis and Clark's Northwestern School of Law and the Graduate Division, is 2,900. The undergraduate student body of 1,800 comes from 45 states and more than 40 foreign countries, attesting to the college's growing national reputation.

That reputation is due in no small part to the outstanding quality of its teaching faculty, full and regular part-time, which numbers 139 in the undergraduate programs. Three out of four of those hold doctoral degrees and 92 percent have attained the highest advanced degree appropriate to their discipline.

The college, proud of its commitment to its liberal arts tradition, offers 35 majors programs in 21 academic departments.

The campus, with 55 buildings blending pleasingly with its forest setting, offers an ideal academic atmosphere. More than half of the campus has been constructed in the past 20 years, including the recently completed Olin Physics/Chemistry Laboratory Building, the Agnes Flanagan Chapel, Fir Acres Theatre, Law School complex and Aubrey Watzek Library, just to name a few.

The pattern of excellence set by Lewis and Clark's faculty, programs and facility establishes a precedence of quality on which the college's extensive sports program is established.
